

IN-PATIENT UNIT

We provide expert round-the-clock care in the In-Patient Unit at our hospice in Erdington. Our specialist team helps with management of pain and other symptoms as well as providing nursing care for patients in their last days of life.

In-patients have access to our other services including physiotherapy, occupational therapy, pharmacy and our patient and family support worker. Our Well-Being Team is on hand giving spiritual and emotional support and can provide counselling and art psychotherapy for you and your family.

We have single and double rooms with en-suite facilities as well as single-sex rooms for four patients. Our chefs offer daily menus but will also provide food for specific dietary needs and preferences. Rooms have access to our gardens and there is Wi-Fi available free of charge on-site.

Health professionals can refer patients who are aged 18 and over to John Taylor Hospice for terminal care and symptom control. Following admission for symptom control or the stabilisation of your condition, the team will plan your discharge to your preferred place of care.
